Edifier G2000

Wireless Stereo Subwoofer speakers are designed to reproduce extremely low frequency sounds. Supported music, game and movie modes will let you choose the right sounds depending on the situation. With 32W peak power, the G2000 allows you to accurately detect any opponent to anticipate their movements. They guarantee an unforgettable immersive experience and new levels of intense gaming. The geometric design, along with 12 available effects, is a perfect addition to your gaming desk.

Professional EQ modes

The Edifier G2000 is a versatile piece of equipment that offers a number of different applications. The sound chip is made using a precise algorithm, responsible for adjusting the EQ settings. In order to achieve a personalized tonality while listening to music, watching an exciting movie or relaxing during your favorite game, all it takes is one swipe of your hand to change the right mode.

Small size with big power

The compact design in no way affects the capabilities of the wireless speakers. They surprise you with an impressive RMS power of 16W along with a peak power of 32W. The 2.75" Hi-Fi unit with composite diaphragm has a full frequency range, delivering an amazing immersive experience. The undistorted power allows you to move freely into the world of computer games. Effortlessly locate all your opponents without being surprised.

Even more possibilities

Realistic Hi-Fi audio levels provide powerful bass, clear tones, and enough volume to fill a small room. The speaker design can be gently pointed upward at a 10° angle to adjust the transmission reception quality. Non-slip pads prevent them from sliding on smooth desk surfaces. The G2000 also features a mega bass port and an auxiliary output jack so you can connect an external subwoofer (not included).

Wide compatibility

You will definitely need a model that impresses with fast and interference-free transmission in any situation. No matter what device you're using, because the G2000 features an optimal range of interfaces. Among others, you can connect to your computer and smartphone via the 3.5mm AUX port, USB sound card, or Bluetooth 4.2 wireless connection.

Original RGB backlighting

High-end speakers combined practical yet ingenious design in a simple way. The modern accessory draws attention with its unique design, and the colorful RGB backlighting gives them an interesting gaming character. Create your own gaming atmosphere by choosing from 12 available lighting effects. Customize the lighting to your liking and ensure a unique atmosphere in the gaming zone.

Get comfortable

With Edifier speakers, it is possible to achieve a quick response without losing the freedom of use. The whole thing is designed in such a way that instant operation is not too complicated. Use the special mechanical lever to conveniently adjust the volume. The buttons are located in easily accessible places and allow you to change sound source, select light effects and switch modes.
