3D Playmags magnetic blocks 165 set of 32 pieces.

Let your child discover the world of architecture and creativity with Playmags magnetic blocks. The set's elements provide fascinating fun while developing critical thinking and logical problem-solving skills. With the ability to build a variety of structures, toddlers can express their imagination and develop manual skills, which is important in their early development. The product is suitable for children ages 3 and up, and its high quality has earned it a Dr. Toy award and approval from the National Parenting Center.

A set that inspires

The Playmags set consists of 32 basic pieces and 6 additional pieces in a variety of shapes and colors that inspire creation and building. This allows children to create complex structures and experiment with different arrangements.

Educational fun

Playmags bricks promote the development of motor skills, learning to recognize shapes and colors, and provide first experiences with math and geometry. Little builders practice perceptiveness and concentration skills, which helps in further education.
