X-Sense SAL51 Smoke/CO Detector

X-Sense SAL51, a wireless smoke and carbon monoxide detector, provides comprehensive protection for your home. The device works in conjunction with the SBS50 base station to monitor multiple rooms and send instant notifications when a threat is detected, significantly increasing security.

High performance with long life

The sensor is powered by two replaceable AAA batteries, providing up to two years of operation on a single set. The product has a 5-year lifespan, making it a reliable solution for many years without the need for service. Simple installation on the wall or ceiling will allow you to quickly enjoy reliable device protection.

You won't miss a threat

The SAL51 sensor operates silently, signaling the detected threat with flashing LEDs. This subtle visual notification makes the device ideal for rooms where loud alarms could be disruptive, such as bedrooms, offices or common areas. However, when the SAL51 sensor is connected to the X-Sense SBS50 base station, the base station generates a loud 100 dB audible alarm when a threat is detected, providing full warning to users.

Extensive connectivity and compatibility

The SAL51 sensor can be connected to up to 50 devices via the SBS50 base station, allowing for an advanced security system for large homes. The devices communicate at 868 MHz, ensuring a stable connection. Using the X-Sense Home Security app (available for Android and iOS), you can remotely monitor the status of your devices and receive instant notifications of detected threats.
