Mcdodo CA-3150 USB-C cable, 6A, 1.2m (black)

Provide fast and secure charging for your devices with the Mcdodo cable. The product is distinguished by its robust construction, wide compatibility and modern design. It provides a power supply of 66/100W, making it charge connected devices in a short period of time and automatically shuts off when a full charge is reached to prevent wear and tear. Built-in LEDs will provide you with information about the charging status.

Smart charging

With the help of the Mcdodo cable, you'll be able to replenish your phone or tablet in no time. It only takes 30 minutes to fully charge your Huawei Mate40Pro. You don't have to worry about the safety of your equipment - MAPO-authorized technology protects your devices and automatically shuts off the power when a full charge is reached. This ensures that the batteries do not wear out and stay in good condition for longer.

LED indicators

Now you can know exactly what the charging status of your devices is. The transparent case reveals two colored LEDs that will provide you with the most important information. Orange indicates fast charging mode, blue indicates active power supply, and alternating LEDs indicate automatic charging completion.

Safety first

Your devices are safe thanks to the dual-core smart chip. The charging process is fully controlled, which means that the charged equipment is not in danger of overcharging or overheating.

Robust design

Carefully considered design makes the Mcdodo CA-3151 cable a purchase that will last for years. Reinforced copper core with high conductivity, allowed to achieve faster charging, and thanks to solid ends, the cable is distinguished by extreme durability and resistance to bending and damage. What's more, the double braid provides additional protection against damage.

Modern design

In addition to being extremely practical, the cable impresses with its modern design. The transparent design allows a glimpse of the internal components, giving it a cyberpunk feel. The cable allows fast charging and instant data transfer.
