Mcdodo CA-2110 USB-C to USB-C cable, PD 100W, 1.2m (black)

Fast and safe charging of your devices will be ensured by the innovative McDodo cable. It offers 2 USB-C connectors, so it guarantees wide compatibility with popular devices. Its power reaches 100 watts, which means that it will work great not only with phones, but also with larger electronics such as laptops, tablets, etc. The cable is distinguished by its sturdy construction and offers a number of safety features so that your devices are protected from short-circuiting, overheating, overcharging, etc. Also noteworthy is the cable's modern design. McDodo combines both functionality and aesthetics.

Smart security features

The cable is equipped with a smart chip that recognizes the type of connected device, automatically adjusting the charging current to it. This solution allows you to keep your batteries in great shape and charge your devices even faster at a much lower temperature. Now you'll charge your MacBook Pro 16 in about 2 hours, without worrying that the equipment will overheat or get damaged. Don't waste your time waiting!

Robust construction

The McDodo cable is a purchase that will last for years! Its solid construction makes the product serve you for a really long time. The thickened core supports 100 watts of power and is in no danger of burning out quickly. The USB-C connectors have been coated with a layer of 24K gold, making them resistant to oxidation, rusting and wear. What's more, the ends of the cable are highly flexible and are not intimidated by bending and pulling, and an extra braid is used along the entire length to protect the cable from damage and tangling. Enjoy the reliable performance of McDodo!

Wide compatibility and modern design

The product offers 2 USB-C connectors. It supports 100 watts of power and automatically recognizes connected devices. All this makes it widely compatible with many devices - it will successfully replenish the power of your phone, laptop or console. Now one cable will replace many others for you! McDodo is distinguished by an extremely interesting design - the transparent case reveals the internal components, which gives it a cyber punk character.
