The ONIKUMA B20 headphones are a great choice for those looking for headphones with an adorable design and long lasting performance. These pink headphones with removable cat ears and a glowing manufacturer's logo on both earpieces can run for more than 21 hours on a single charge - up to 50! The long working time is due to the 1000mAh battery, which takes only 3 hours to charge to full. The working range of the headphones is 10 meters - you can move within such a radius from the device from which the music is transmitted without breaking the signal. Other advantages of the headphones are the buttons on the earpiece, which make it easy, for example, to skip between songs.

Play for hours

Long operating time is one of the biggest advantages of ONIKUMA B20 headphones. With a capacious 1000mAh battery, you can use the headphones for more than 21 hours. You can listen to music continuously for 50h. This makes them great headphones for a long trip away from electrical outlets or powerbanks. Once the battery runs out, it only takes 3 hours to recharge, which is great in return for even more than two hours of use.

Charming design

Design is another strong point of the B20 headphones - a cute pink color, a sturdy and somewhat old-school design, luminescent lights on the side of each earpiece, attachable cat ears and a microphone that can be removed make the B20 not only good looking, but also extremely functional.

Convenience, ergonomics, personalization

The ONIKUMA B20 have an adjustable headband, and each of the headphones swivels to accommodate different users - comfort is key with headphones of this long duration. Both headphones have soft earcups made of skin-friendly material. Depending on your needs, the microphone can be detached and attached back - this includes the cat ears.

The most important functions always at hand

To make using the headphones even more convenient, they have been equipped with buttons with which you can adjust the music volume, switch between headphones, switch the microphone on and off, but also handle calls, turn off the lights on the headphones, activate the voice assistant and switch the headphones themselves on and off. The power of possibilities under your finger!

Excellent sound

The ONIKUMA B20 isn't just about looks and battery - these headphones feature 50mm speakers that deliver great sound to make listening to music, playing games or chatting with friends even more fun!
