Freewell M2 Series 67mm CPL Filter.

Create exceptional shots with impressive quality. The CPL filter eliminates glare from metallic surfaces and increases color saturation. What's more, a lens hood with a convenient grip protects the lens from dirt and damage, and a magnetic adapter allows you to mount the filter with ease. In addition, a dedicated case makes it easy to store the product.

Various usage scenarios

The CPL polarizing filter performs a key function in photography, effectively reducing glare from metallic surfaces, ultimately increasing color saturation and contrast. With the help of the CPL polarizing filter, colors are more vivid and details are more visible. As a result, you can easily achieve stunning, immersive images with increased depth and clarity.

Refined design

The Freewell filter is made from German optical glass and was created using a multi-layer coating process, which not only provides superior scratch protection, but also unparalleled image quality. It is waterproof, dustproof and oilproof, ensuring reliability even in the most demanding conditions.

Quick and easy installation

Indulge in quick filter changes and don't worry about missing the perfect shot. The magnetic system allows you to change filters in the blink of an eye. Forget about the tedious tightening and unscrewing of filters. It only takes one second to apply a new filter. Thanks to the increased magnetic force, the mount is reliable, which means you can concentrate on creating great shots without worrying about stability.
