Magene H603 heart rate sensor - white

The Magene H603 heart rate monitor is an advanced device designed for athletes and fitness enthusiasts. It combines precise heart rate monitoring with wearable comfort and long battery life. Using cutting-edge technology, the Magene H603 offers accurate data that can be key to optimizing your workout.

Advanced heart rate monitoring

The Magene H603 heart rate monitor uses an advanced ECG signal processing chip that directly extracts heart rate data from the ECG waveform. This ensures high measurement accuracy by eliminating interference from movement and sweat.

Compatibility with multiple devices

The H603 supports both Bluetooth 4.2 and ANT+ protocols, allowing simultaneous connection with multiple devices such as bicycle computers, sports watches and mobile apps like Zwift, Strava and Wahoo Fitness.

Long battery life

The use of CR2032 batteries ensures up to 1,000 hours of sensor operation, which translates into about 2.5 years of use with daily training. This solution minimizes the need for frequent battery replacement, increasing convenience.

Water resistance and durability

The sensor has an IP67 water resistance rating, which means it is resistant to dust and short-term immersion in water. It is ideal for a variety of weather conditions, ensuring reliability during intense workouts.

Lightweight and comfortable

The sensor weighs just 16 grams and the chest strap weighs 30±1 grams, making it almost imperceptible when worn. The adjustable strap ensures a perfect fit without causing discomfort even during prolonged use.
